

THE DODGE CITY TIMES.

LOCO POISON.

From the Trinidad, Colo., News.

It had been thought that the poisonous weed known as "loco" only affected animals in the early spring, it being the first plant that shows itself after the snow has left the ground and the animals seize it as a dainty morsel. This theory of its waiting until spring time to do its evil work is incorrect. It has made its appearance right in the dead of winter, and hundreds of horses and mules are raving mad in this county and on the Pan Handle of Texas, from its effects at this present time. Mr. Lon Horn informs us that two-thirds of his entire herd are raving maniacs to-day. He describes the appearance of the malady in this wise: "The horses that have taken the poison at first appear stupid. He is troubled to get his head near enough to the ground to either drink or feed, and if not assisted is liable to die from exhaustion. The trouble seems to be in the spinal cord, and right at the poll or back of the head. The least blow given the animal at that locality sets him raving mad and he will pitch and fall as though he were drunk, frequently thrashing his head against the ground until the blood flies from his nostrils and mouth." Mr. Horn finds that by feeding them hay and grain and placing in such a position that the animal can eat without lowering his head, he becomes more rational.

PROHIBITION.

A Wichita correspondent says that Governor St. John passed through that place on his return from Winfield, where he had been to deliver a lecture on Prohibition. He remained over at that point one day, visiting friends and relatives in the city. The Gov. was warmly urged by many worthy citizens to remain in Wichita and institute a temperance crusade upon the "half shell" system in the city, but quietly and respectfully declined upon the plea of other engagements, but in a conversation with the correspondent he gave it as his true reason for not so doing that while he still had much confidence in the good effect of the prohibition law generally, a thorough test had disclosed its weak points; which could only be remedied by further legislation, and while he knew that the law was openly violated and defied in Wichita, he considered the two elements pretty equally divided in that section; that he also regarded Wichita as a very strong political point, and slyly remarked that he expected to remain in politics for some time yet, thus he preferred not to agitate the question too strongly in this as in other large towns, in view of many recent decisions arising in the trials of liquor cases, which decisions were adverse to its constitutionality, and rendered its enforcement more difficult. He expressed a wish that the prohibition law might yet survive and render immortal—to adorn the pages of history, and be held in grateful remembrance of the generations which are and are yet to come—the name which was born by a saint from "away back."

The Australians have adopted most stringent measures in reference to scab in sheep. There is a State scab inspector, whose duty it is to see that the law is enforced. Every sheep owner is obliged to notify all flockmasters within a certain radius as soon as he discovers scab in his sheep, and post notices in public places. And after ninety days, if the disease is not stamped out, all scabby sheep must be killed.

One voice all over the land goes up from mothers, that says: "My daughters are so feeble and sad, with no strength, all out of breath and live at the least exertion. What can we do for them?" The answer is simple and full of hope. One to four week's use of Hop Bitters will make them healthy, rosy, sprightly and cheerful.

The beauty and color of the hair may be safely regained by using Parker's Hair Balm, which is much admired for its perfume, cleanliness and dandruff eradicating properties.
